

Power to the People* - presented by Outsiders and Others

What was originally planned as a protest art show by self-taught artists has now become a community based exhibition featuring works by both self-taught and trained artists, of all age groups, of all abilities, with works that are protest based and not.

An open “call for artists” was made public for this exhibition, Power to the People. It was intended to be an opportunity for self-taught artists to share the work they have been making in response to the world we live in today and to share their opinions about it. In looking through the work that came in, it became evident that this is an opportunity to show a huge variety of artwork by an eclectic array of talent that may or may not have shown their work before.

All twenty-one artists that applied are included in this exhibition. These artists are Althea Adams, Nina Alderwood, Carl Baird, Lisa Marie Bellano, Eduardo Rodriguez Calzado, Bryan Cathcart, Sidi Chen, Rojina Farrokhnejad, Brooklyn Fink, Kevin Harney, Michelle Ibaraki, Sarina Joy, Sunroop Kaur, Signe Knutson and Fred Cheezo, Margaret Ostrowski, Ben Roback, Luke Scales, Seema Shah, Mary Sousa, Doris Williams, and Jeremy Zupp.

Ben Roback

Sarina Joy

Jeremy Zupp

Outsiders and Others is a non-profit art society that brings nontraditional artists to the forefront. Our gallery is a window-based experience where you can see an entire exhibition through the window. If you want more information on the artists or the exhibition, you simple scan the QR code on the window with your phone. You can visit the gallery inside by appointment only and PPE and social distancing is required. The gallery is open 7 days a week 24 hours a day.

Contact: Yuri Araj

outsidersandothers@gmail.com

604-499-5025

Outsiders and Others Art Society gallery location: 716 East Hastings Street, Vancouver

www.outsidersandothers.com

Facebook: facebook.com/outsidersandothers

Instagram: @outsidersandothers

Twitter: @AndOutsiders